ABOUT TAIMY

Taimy Alvarez, is a Cuban-American photojournalist, Director of Photography, editor, and mixed-medium artist based in South Florida.

She has contributed to projects for INSIDER, Washington Post, U.S.A. Today, Associated Press, Go Traveler, and The Sun Sentinel. Alvarez's distinctive documentary style in photography, videography, and editing has led to the creation of visually striking visual narratives. Notably, her recent work on the mini-documentary "CROSSING THE WATERS: THE IMPACT OF BAHAMIAN PIONEERS IN SOUTH FLORIDA" was selected to be shown at the Fort Lauderdale International Film Festival and was a finalist in the NewFilmMakers in NY, showcasing her talent globally.

Beyond her professional accomplishments, Taimy dedicates herself to nurturing budding photographers and artists through workshops and mentorship. She firmly believes in the power of visual storytelling to educate and inspire, often collaborating with fellow artists and businesses to advocate for cultural awareness and shed light on social issues.

In her artistic pursuits, Taimy delves into mixed-media art, blending traditional photography with digital manipulation, painting, and collage. This innovative approach allows her to push the boundaries of visual art, creating pieces that provoke thought and captivate aesthetically.

Recently, Taimy has ventured into exploring Cuba through her artwork, despite never having visited the country her family comes from.
